

Great Smeaton Academy Primary School

Sex and Relationship Education (SRE) Policy

We continue to develop a curriculum that is rooted in a creativity that gives the children the opportunities to learn through a range of teaching and learning styles across the year. Each curriculum policy reflects this and leads to our vision that we will Create, Discover and Succeed together. We will do this by:

- Connecting: seeing relationships and combining in new ways
- Risking: having the self-confidence and freedom to fail and keep trying
- Envisaging: being original and imaginative about what might be
- Analysing: asking critical and challenging questions
- Thinking: taking time for reflection and soft thinking
- Interacting: sharing ideas and collaborating
- Varying: testing options and trying different ways
- Elaborating: exploring, fiddling, doing the unnecessary

Tell me and I forget,
Show me and I remember,
Involve me and I understand

Our vision

At Great Smeaton we aim to educate the whole child and to ensure children are happy, healthy and fulfill their potential in terms of the development of skills for life, social and moral values and academic success. Sex and Relationship Education is lifelong learning about physical, moral and emotional development. It is about the understanding of the importance of loving and caring relationships. Research demonstrates that good, comprehensive SRE does not make young people more likely to become sexually active at a younger age and in fact knowledge can help prevent this as well as helping to identify child protection issues in young children.

Policy Aims

The aim of SRE is to provide children with age appropriate information, explore attitudes and values, and develop skills in order to help them to make positive decisions about their health related behaviour.

The SRE policy has the following aims:

- To provide the knowledge and information to which all children are entitled
- To raise children' self esteem and confidence, especially in their relationships with others
- To help children to develop skills and to make the most of their abilities
- To develop children' understanding of the importance of a healthier safer lifestyle
- To provide a description of how SRE is delivered, monitored and evaluated in the school
- To help children learn to respect and care for their bodies

All those who teach aspects of SRE within school, including visitors, are expected to be guided by the following values framework which represents the values held in common by the whole school community.

The teaching of SRE will encourage children to:

- Value and respect themselves
- Value and respect others
- Value and respect differences in people's religion, culture, physical and mental ability and social background

The personal beliefs and attitudes of teachers will not influence the teaching of SRE in this school.

Learning Outcomes for SRE within the School

By the end of Key Stage 1, children will have had opportunities to gain knowledge and skills necessary to build and maintain healthy relationships. They will have considered the effect of their behaviour on other people and identify and respect differences between people. They will also have discussed different ways in which family and friends care for one another.

They will be able to explain ways of keeping clean and they will be able to name the main parts of the human body. They will also be able to explain that people grow from young to old. By the end of the 4 years in Key Stage 2, children will have had the opportunity to express their views and respect those of others. They will have practiced skills in making judgements and decisions, and will be able to list some ways of resisting negative peer pressure around issues affecting their health and wellbeing.

They will also have considered different types of relationship (for example, marriage or friendships), and discussed ways in which people can maintain good relationships (for example, listening, supporting, caring).

The following learning outcomes are taken from OFSTED Sex and Relationships, OfSTED (2000) and guide the teaching of SRE in this school.

By the end of Key Stage 1 Children will be able to:

- recognise and compare the main external parts of the bodies of humans
- recognise similarities and differences between themselves and others and treat others with sensitivity
- identify and share their feelings with others
- recognise safe and unsafe situations
- identify and be able to talk with someone they trust
- be aware that their feelings and actions have an impact on others
- make a friend, talk with them and share feelings
- use simple rules for dealing with strangers and for resisting pressure when they feel uncomfortable or at risk.

Children will know and understand:

- that animals, including humans, grow and reproduce
- that humans and animals can produce offspring and these grow into adults*
- the basic rules for keeping themselves safe and healthy
- about safe places to play and safe people to be with
- the needs of babies and young people
- ways in which they are like and different from others that they have some control over their actions and bodies
- the names of the main external parts of the body including agreed names for sexual parts 1
- why families are special for caring and sharing. Children will have considered:
- why families are special
- the similarities and differences between people
- how their feelings and actions have an impact on other people. (*relates to SRE)

By the end of Key Stage 2 Children will be able to:

- express opinions, for example, about relationships and bullying
- listen to, and support others
- respect other people's viewpoints and beliefs
- recognise their changing emotions with friends and family and be able to express their feelings positively
- identify adults they can trust and who they can ask for help
- be self-confident in a wide range of new situations, such as seeking new friends
- form opinions that they can articulate to a variety of audiences
- recognise their own worth and identify positive things about themselves
- balance the stresses of life in order to promote both their own mental health and well-being and that of others
- see things from other people's viewpoints, for example their parents and their carers
- discuss moral questions
- listen to, support their friends and manage friendship problems
- recognise and challenge stereotypes, for example in relation to gender recognise the pressure of unwanted physical contact, and know ways of resisting it.

Children will know and understand:

- that the life processes common to humans and other animals include growth and reproduction
- about the main stages of the human life cycle
- begin to know some of the physical changes that take place during puberty, why they happen and how to manage them i.e. personal hygiene routines.
- the many relationships in which they are all involved
- where individual families and groups can find help
- how the media impact on forming attitudes
- about keeping themselves safe
- that their actions have consequences and be able to anticipate the results of them
- about different forms of bullying people and the feelings of both bullies and victims
- why being different can provoke bullying and know why this is unacceptable
- about, and accept, a wide range of different family arrangements, for example second marriages, fostering, extended families and three or more generations living together.

Children will have considered:

- the diversity of lifestyles
- others' points of view, including their parents' or carers
- why being different can provoke bullying and why this is unacceptable
- when it is appropriate to take a risk and when to say no and seek help
- the diversity of values and customs in the school and in the community
- the need for trust and love in established relationships.

The Organisation of SRE

SRE is co-ordinated by Mrs Greenwood and is taught within the PSHE programme at Key Stages 1 and 2. Biological aspects of SRE are taught within the science curriculum and some moral aspects are taught within RE.

A range of teaching methods which involve children's full participation are used to teach SRE. These include use of small group work, discussion, case studies, drama and role-play. Ground rules and distancing techniques are used to establish a safe environment to facilitate discussion and children are encouraged to reflect on their learning. SRE is usually delivered in mixed gender groups.

Use of visitors

'Visitors should complement but never substitute or replace planned provision. It is the PSHE co-ordinator's and teacher's responsibility to plan the curriculum and lessons. Sex and Relationship Guidance DfEE 0116/2000 P 29 6.11

Visitors to school, such as parents/carers, health professionals and members of voluntary organisations, may be invited to contribute to SRE learning. They will be given a copy of this policy and will be expected to work within the framework described within. The PSHE co-ordinator will ensure that the visitors' contributions to lessons are in line with the learning outcomes of the school's SRE policy. A teacher will be present during any learning from a visitor.

Terminology

OfSTED guidance recommends that it is important for children to learn the language associated with body parts so that children are able to talk to health professionals. Therefore, teachers will use the anatomically correct language for body parts, while acknowledging common terms used by some people. Correct language for body parts will be gradually introduced from Year 1.

Dealing with Difficult Questions

Ground rules are essential to provide an agreed structure to answering sensitive or difficult questions. This framework facilitates the use of an anonymous question box as a distancing technique. Teachers will endeavour to answer questions as honestly as possible, but if faced with a question they do not feel comfortable answering within the classroom, provision would be made to meet the individual child's needs. This may involve referring the child back to their parent/carer, school health advisor/school nurse for an answer, or seeking advice from the PSHE co-ordinator.

At Great Smeaton, questions relating to specific sex education issues will be referred back to families.

Children with Special Needs

Teaching and resources will be differentiated as appropriate to address the needs of children in order for them to have full access to the content of SRE.

Monitoring and Evaluation of SRE

The PSHE co-ordinator collects evidence for the monitoring and evaluation of the SRE programme by means of lesson observations, monitoring lesson plans and gathering feedback from teachers and children. Feedback is obtained through group discussion and/or feedback forms. Any staff development needs will also be identified. SRE issues will be included in the induction programme for all new members of staff.

Withdrawal of children from SRE and Complaints Procedure

The school will include agreed information on SRE in the school prospectus and full details are available on request. The school will inform parents/carers when aspects of the SRE programme are taught (this may be done simply by announcing in the school's newsletter in some instances) and will provide opportunities for parents/carers to view the videos and resources being used.

Parents have a legal right to withdraw their child from SRE. Any parent wishing to withdraw their child is encouraged to make an appointment with the Mrs Greenwood to discuss the matter.

Any complaints about the content or delivery of SRE should be addressed to the head teacher.

Equal Opportunities

All children are entitled to receive SRE regardless of ability, gender, race, religious belief or grouping. Through SRE we seek to develop a positive view of female and male sexuality. It is our intention that all children have the opportunity to experience a programme of SRE at a level which is appropriate for their age and physical development, with differentiated provision if required.

Safeguarding/Confidentiality

Teachers need to be aware that effective SRE, which brings an understanding of what is and is not acceptable in a relationship, may lead to disclosure of a child protection issue. Under common law, young people are entitled to the same duty of confidence as adults. Personal information about them should not be shared without their permission except for the purposes of child protection.
